Cold War History Focus of DoD Grant

The University Libraries' Special Collections & Archives are involved with a Department of Defense grant from the Legacy Resource Management Program.

Dawne Dewey, Head of Special Collections & Archives, learned in May that $105,000 is granted to establish an oral history documentation of the technological dimensions of the Cold War era (1946 - 1991). Initial focus will be on aerospace technology emerging from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

The grant will finance a full-time archivist/historian to work from the Archives and purchase necessary equipment. The first step will be identifying key technologies developed by WPAFB personnel and used by U.S. military forces during the Cold War, and identifying personnel involved in planning, developing and deploying these high-impact technologies.

Wright-Patterson is known as a central force in the development of technologies affecting the Cold War's progress and enabling the United States to prevail over the Soviet Union. Many key players in this work are now age 80 and older.

An advisory board will be created with representatives from the WPAFB History Office and Cultural Resources Management, WSU College of Engineering & Computer Science, WSU departments of History and Political Science, and the Archives. This board will consult with DoD personnel about content and research, plus ensure compatibility with other science and technology history programs.

This project idea was introduced by Friends of the Libraries' Board member Dr. Richard E. Thomas who suggested a Cold War Archives in 2003.

Dunbar Poetry Digital Collection Site Updated

Visit the Libraries' newly reorganized and redesigned website about Dayton poet Paul Laurence Dunbar. This digital collection features more information that is now easier than ever to research. The information and materials are from the Libraries' Special Collections and Archives which houses a large collection of Dunbar literature including poetry, books, and libretti (dramatic musical works).

Additions to the site include a biography, poems from five books, libretti, a photo gallery and a section for further study. See it all online at:

Dr. Stephen P. Foster

At the end of every academic year I like to pause and reflect on the recent accomplishments of the Libraries. This is a particularly gratifying moment for me this year because the Libraries have such a broad range of contributors and there are so many good things from the past year to contemplate as evidenced in this issue of Access.

First, the members of our energetic Friends of the Libraries have provided wonderful support for our efforts to renovate the Group Study room on the first floor of Dunbar Library. The actual renovation work began on June 13, and when our students return for classes in September they will, I believe, be delighted with the newly created study space they find. This is one of a number of efforts to make our library a more welcoming place for our students and faculty.

Second, our Friends of the Libraries' membership has grown since early 2003 by about 20 percent, thanks in part, I believe, to the popular public programming that our Program subcommittee of the Friends of the Libraries' Board has worked so hard to develop. These programs make the Libraries highly visible by bringing in outside community members. Most recently a near record number of guests turned out to hear Neal Gittleman at the FOL luncheon.

Third, I am delighted to report that the Libraries' staff remains consistent in its high productivity and creativity. This past academic year, three grant proposals have been funded. Libraries staff have planned and participated in numerous programs and won awards. But most importantly, the Libraries' staff members consistently serve our patrons in many positive ways every day. This makes the Libraries one of the most highly valued resources on the WSU campus.

Libraries' PTDL Coordinating 2nd Annual InventorFest

Wright State University will host InventorFest '05 on Saturday, October 1, at the Student Union. This 2nd annual InventorFest is a free, small-scale, patent and marketing tradeshow for vendors and anyone who wants to learn more about inventing, from the patent process to marketing. The University Libraries are a Patent and Trademark Depository Library (PTDL).

The event features key-note speakers, general information seminars, vendor exhibits, and representatives from the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, Small Business Development Centers of Ohio, the Public Library of Cincinnati and Hamilton County, and the WSU Libraries. These last three organizations also sponsor the event.

"Regional and local companies and inventors can share information about services and products with independent inventors and small businesses while scouting for new and exciting products to market," said Ran Raider, Patent and Trademark Reference Specialist for the WSU Libraries.

He said vendors will include manufacturers, licensing or product development firms, financial institutions, wholesalers/retailers, inventor councils, product scouts, inventor resource publishers, marketing experts, and patent search and legal experts.

Vendors must register by September 1. To register or to learn additional information, please check the InventorFest website at:

www.libraries.wright.edu/inventorfest/

Or call Ran Raider at (937) 775-3521, or e-mail him at ran.raider@wright.edu.

This event is free and open to the public.

In Memory of Student Assistant Katie Marie Winner

The Libraries lost a friend and employee when WSU Senior Katie Marie Winner died in a car accident on June 24. Katie majored in English and Spanish and had been published in a book of poetry. She was a 2000 graduate of Wapakoneta High School and an avid reader.

She joined the staff of the Dunbar Library Information Delivery Services in 2001. Her reliability resulted in her working the early morning shift opening the library and helping to set up the circulation area for the day.

Katie is survived by her parents, Larry J. and Diane M. Arnett Winner of Wapakoneta; a brother and sister, Adam of Sidney and Kara of Wapakoneta; her grandmothers and several uncles, aunts, cousins, and numerous friends.

Katie was an excellent employee, a great co-worker, and a very nice person. She will be greatly missed.

News from the University Libraries' Special Collections & Archives

Unique Student Finds The Right Stuff in Archives

By Toni Jeske, Archivist

Our collections draw a variety of people with a wide range of interests, and every one of them has a unique story. We sometimes are fortunate enough to learn these stories while providing reference help, and recently discovered the interesting background of Akiko Matsumoto.

Akiko is a student who graduated with a Master of Science in Aerospace Medicine in June 2005. Just before graduation, she conducted research in the Special Collections & Archives' Aerospace Medicine collections.

She researched body weight loss in space and was interested in original published reports such as the Gemini Program (the second U.S. manned space program in 1962). She was pleased to find archival collections containing the documents she needed, specifically the medical collections located at Fordham Health Sciences Library. She found much of her research information in the papers of Ross A. McFarland, considered to be the father of human factors engineering.

The Archives' collecting area of Aerospace Medicine and Human Factors Engineering supports WSU's Aerospace Medicine Residency Program, the only such civilian program in the United States.

WSU is also one of a select group of repositories for NASA shuttle flight medical data. Akiko's research highlights the importance of studying the past to effectively forge developments for the future.

Akiko holds an M.D. and Ph.D in Biochemistry from Tokyo Medical and Dental University in Japan, and is Board-certified in Neurology and Internal Medicine. She is currently an Associate Senior Medical Officer for the Space Medicine Program at JAXA (Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency), Japan's NASA equivalent, and has been selected as a flight surgeon.

The Special Collections & Archives are open to the public 8:30 am - 5:00 pm Monday through Friday for the summer. It is open additional hours on Wednesdays and Sundays during the academic year. For more information, please call (937) 775-2092 or visit our website at:

More Exhibit Space!

The Libraries will have four additional exhibit spaces when the Dunbar Library Group Study Room renovation is completed this fall. The first exhibits will feature the renovation itself and the people who made it possible.

Future exhibit topics for the fall and winter quarters include the Ohio Memory Project, Historical Theater Collection & Playbills, Theater in Dayton, Dorothy White, Rikes Department Store, the Frigidaire Collection, and more.

More exhibits are being initiated and installed by Libraries' staff members with assistance and oversight from the Special Collections and Archives' staff. Visit the Dunbar and Fordham libraries to learn more about the Miami Valley and our collections as new exhibits are regularly created.

Schmunk Joins Archives as New Barton Scholar

Melissa A. Schmunk is the second student hired from the John & Gloria Barton Aviation History Processing Fund. She is a WSU graduate student in the Public History program and currently working on the Walter Matthew Jefferies Aviation Collection. She anticipates graduation in Summer 2006.

Dr. and Mrs. Barton reside in Omaha, Nebraska, and established the fund in early 2004. The fund enables the Archives to hire graduate students in the WSU Public History Master's degree program to work in the archives processing aviation history manuscript collections.

Dewey Visits France To Help with 2008 Plans

Dawne Dewey, Head of Special Collections & Archives, traveled with Amanda Wright Lane to France in May for a week of visiting with dignitaries and organizers preparing for a major Wright celebration.

Wilbur Wright demonstrated the Wright airplanes in France in 1908 and 1909, resulting in a sale to the French military.

France is planning a centennial celebration of the Wright's visit for 2008. Event planners visited the Special Collections & Archives in the fall of 2004 to view rare materials in the Wright Brothers Collection. Dawne anticipates collaboration on exhibits with loans of materials to and from Pau, France, to commemorate the anniversary. More information will be shared as 2008 nears.

Exhibits in the Libraries

Exhibits in the Libraries for the summer include:

Dunbar Library

- Native American Flutes
- The Korn Brothers
- Banned Books
- Dixie Blandy
- The American Constitution
- LeBaudy-Julliot Airship Postcards

Fordham Library

- Mosquitoes
- History of Medicine prints, books

New exhibit spaces are part of the Dunbar Library Group Study Room renovation and will open Fall Quarter. Stay tuned for new exhibits throughout the Libraries for the 2005-2006 academic year.

DPO's Gittleman Headlines Friends' Spring Luncheon

The Friends of the Libraries connected music and books for its 26th annual spring luncheon held May 24 at the WSU Student Union. Guest speaker Neal Gittleman, Music Director and Conductor for the Dayton Philharmonic Orchestra, told about his personal book collection and family interest in libraries.

His topic, "Rummaging in the Attic," touched on the tie between music and books inspired by the extensive Dayton Philharmonic and Paul Katz collections housed in the Libraries' Special Collections and Archives. Photographs, posters, programs, and sheet music from these collections were exhibited at the luncheon.

Mr. Gittleman entertained the crowd with anecdotes about his favorite books, and finding his name within the archived collection's office papers detailing interviews for a new conductor 10 years ago. He mentioned the budget cuts facing many public and university libraries and encouraged people to support their local libraries.

The luncheon was organized by the Friends' Program Committee consisting of Nick Apple, Louis Falkner, Jack Lewis, Lewis Shupe, and Valerie Underwood.

The Dayton Philharmonic Orchestra organization was very helpful in the luncheon planning and donated concert ticket vouchers for the fall season as door prizes.

The Friends of the Libraries' Board of Directors held its annual meeting immediately prior to the luncheon and elected officers Barbara Denison as president, William Cassel as Treasurer, and Valerie Underwood as Secretary. Phyllis Heck continues her term as vice-president. Elizabeth Harden was voted in as a new WSU-representative Board member. Thanks were given to outgoing Board member Sarah Timmons who served two consecutive terms as a Board member and Treasurer, and to Squire Brown for his two terms as Board Secretary.

The 2005-2006 Board will begin its meetings in September.
